LONDON, January 10.—Unusually severe storms, accompanied by intense cold and heavy snow, are sweeping Europe this winter. On the coast of Spain and France, the disturbances have proved a serious menace to shipping, while in the North Sea and in Scandinavian waters, the ice floes are so heavy that navigation in many places is difficult.

Not in many years have there been so many casualties from avalanches in the Swiss and French Alps. Heavy rains in the lower passes and foothills of the latter mountains have contributed largely to the Marie and Seine floods in France.

The cold in England is severe and there is much snow, especially in the Midlands and in the north. Wind, snow and rain over all of Western Europe have seriously delayed telegraph communication.

Until six o'clock this morning no press dispatches had reached England from Spain in more than twenty-four hours.

BRITISH SUB SINKS; THIRTY REPORTED LOST

Crushing Blow For Crooks In Philly

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—At the close of the fourth day of Brigadier General Butler's campaign to clean up Philadelphia, police reports indicated that one of the most crushing blows in the history of the city has been dealt to crooks, gamblers, bootleggers and racketeers.

All the known gambling establishments, disorderly houses and speakeasies were said to have ceased operations and their proprietors fled. As a precautionary measure, however, two policemen were stationed in the windows of suspected places, blinds were thrown to the top of the windows and lieutenants in charge of the police districts made frequent rounds to see that the policemen carried out their orders.

About forty places were raided last night and approximately fifty arrests made. Thirteen men, picked up on the streets as suspects, were held for further hearings.

Carried Short Handled Axes Armed with short handled axes, squads of policemen and detectives started their raiding activities early in the night. In the Tenderloin and central sections they confined their efforts to older saloons, gambling establishments and disorderly houses, while in the outlying districts, chief attention was paid to illicit stills and saloons.

WIDESPREAD LABOR DISORDERS BREAK OUT IN GERMANY

BERLIN, January 10.—(By the United Press)—Widespread labor disorders have broken out in many parts of Germany as a result of the effort to scrap the 8-hour day and reduce wages, dispatches revealed today.

At Bochum police used daggers and bayonets to repulse a horde of unemployed who stormed the Bochumer Verein works and the Rembach smelter, seeking to drag out workers employed in the plant.

The metal unions in Bochum decided on a general strike affecting the northwestern group of mines in Bochum district.

Widespread disorders occurred in Romscheid. The Bergische steel works discharged its whole working crew.

At Neuhof radicals held up a train carrying workers and stoned them. Many shots were fired when police attempted to restore order. Several persons were taken to hospitals.

Bridegroom, 55, Can't Explain Conquest of Bride, 18

MRS. VIVIAN FISKE FLEMING
By NEA Service
MANISTEE, Mich. — Charles Fleming, 55, veteran sailor of many Great Lakes storms and toss, has put to sea once more in matrimony with a blushing bride of 18 in town.

Rolling a saline chimney from his lips the December bridegroom and his May spouse have electrified local ports with such late romance.

Nor does Fleming know exactly just how he conquered the heart and hand of Vivian Fiske, whose charm and wealth have long been the toast from many a hurricane deck and maritime levee.

Submarine Rammmed By Dreadnaught In Channel

LONDON, January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—An admiralty message says the British submarine L-24 has been lost off Portland in a collision. It is feared the entire crew perished.

The L-24 was completed in the latter part of the war. She was 234 feet, 4 inches in length over all. She displaced 800 tons on the surface, and 1,070 submerged, and carried a complement of 30 men.

The L-24, which is reported to have had thirty men aboard, sank after a collision with the dreadnaught Esolito off Portland Bill, a rocky promontory on the Isle of Portland, extending into the English Channel. It is unofficially reported that the submarine was rammmed by the dreadnaught.

Decided Drift Away From Bonus In Congress

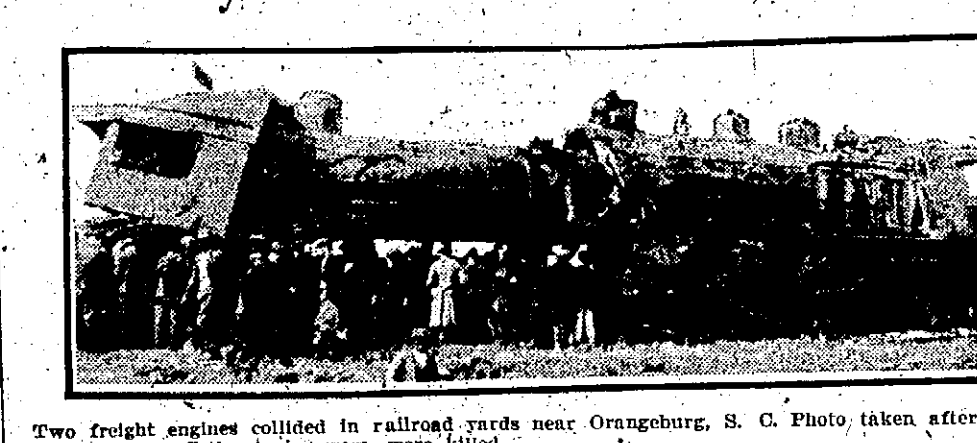

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1924, by The Times)
WASHINGTON, January 10.—Capitol Hill is just now the scene of one of the most unprecedented situations in recent legislative history. The pledges to pass a soldier bonus bill are more than sufficient numerically to carry the measure through but the wave of public opinion which has swept the Senate is so strong for tax revision that the embarrassments to individual members are accumulating daily.

If a vote were taken today on how Congress really feels about the soldier bonus, it would not become a law. Over nine of the Presidential veto which is inevitable. The lines of the bonus advocates have been steadily weakening for several days.

Expressions from all parts of the country have been so emphatic that many members who are not yet willing publicly to say they have changed are beginning to fall in line with the tactics of Representative Longworth, majority leader of the House, who wants to give the tax bill right of way and consider the bonus bill afterwards. He knows perfectly well that once a tax bill is

Democrats Win Senate Battle Over The I. C. C. Chairmanship

WASHINGTON, January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Reverberations from the month's battle in the senate which resulted in the election yesterday of Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee over Senator Cummings, Republican, Iowa, continued today in the form of rumbling that presaged a somewhat similar fight over the retention by the Iowa senator of the office of president pro tem.

The house, meanwhile, began work on the first big appropriation measure of the session—the Interior Department supply bill—which was reported yesterday by the appropriations committee with the total cut to $261,727,965, which is $36,792,044 less than allotted to the department last year.

Senator Cummings was defeated for the Interstate Commerce Chairmanship on the thirty-second ballot, receiving 20 votes, against 30 for Smith, which includes six cast by Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, and five members of the insurgent group he heads. Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, received six votes on the final ballot.

MARION, ILL., January 10.—(By the United Press)—Sheriff George Galligan today defied the Ku Klux Klan and other organizations in Williams county when he decided to "keep state peace" in Marion and Herrin until Glenn Young and all his prohibition raiders are driven out of Illinois.

After an all night conference in which several civic and municipal organizations were represented, the sheriff announced he would not argue the request to have troops removed. "The occupation of Marion and Herrin will continue until Glenn Young and all prohibition raiders are driven out of Illinois. I will not ask the governor to recall the troops until conditions change," he said.

Disqualified by an Earthquake

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., January 10.—(By the United Press)—G. S. Clark, automobile salesman in Peru, visiting here tells a story of a peculiar episode upon one Estaban Alvarez.

"Estaban went to bed after completing the harvesting of his corn field. Looking out the window next morning, instead of seeing a bare, well harvested field, rows of waving corn stalks met his astonished gaze. An earthquake had moved a neighboring corn field upon his premises.

"Not questioning the workings of Providence, Estaban went out and harvested again. With his accumulated wealth, he decided to run for the legislature. On the day of election, Estaban was disqualified. During the night another earthquake had moved his residence into the next district."

Bandits Escape After Gun Battle

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA., January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Officers and possemen are following three trails through the Everglades in pursuit of members of the famous Ashley gang, who escaped after a gun fight, which began early yesterday, and in which one outlaw was left dead in the one officer.

The pursuers, led by packs of bloodhounds, are determined to wipe out the outlaw band which is held responsible for many of the major crimes in Florida during the past ten years, and know that they are seeking men who will die fighting.

Last night deputy sheriffs encountered John Ashley, son of Joe Ashley, near Olympia, and exchanged shots with him. The officers' automobiles stalled and Ashley approached, not recognizing the deputies. He was ordered to throw up his hands, but whipped out his pistol, fired and fled.

WHOLESALE RAIDS IN CLEANUP OF CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—With police today prepared to continue their raids on orders of Safety Director Edw. D. Barry to rid the city of mint machines, gambling and other forms of vice, more than 100 persons were to be arraigned on charges placed against them following their arrest last night.

In raids paralleling those in Philadelphia, police last night confiscated 133 slot machines, and arrested 133 persons, all except 18 on charges of exhibiting and operating the machines. ## Wants Job That Requires No Thinking PRODIGY PUNCHING ADDING MACHINE Asks That People Let Him Alone

NEW YORK, January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—William J. Sidis, who at the age of two, could read and write, at seven passed the Harvard Medical School examinations in anatomy, at eight could speak French, Russian, English and German, and passed the entrance examinations of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at ten entered Tufts, and at eleven astonished professors of mathematics at Harvard with a lecture on the fourth dimension, today is a twenty-three dollar a week clerk, punching an adding machine, the New York Tribune discloses.

Young Sidis, who is now twenty-six, is a son of the late Dr. Boris Sidis, internationally known, author, psychologist and philosopher. Since he received his bachelor of arts degree at Harvard in 1914, at the age of sixteen, he has gradually gone from public sight. After two years in the school of arts and sciences and in the law school at Harvard, he became an instructor in mathematics at Rice Institute at Houston, Texas.

In 1919, his name again appeared in the newspapers, when he was arrested with eleven others in a socialistic demonstration in Boston and sentenced to eighteen months in the House of Correction. He appealed and defaulted, two warrants being issued for his arrest. Then he dropped from sight.

About six months ago, his friends found him in his present job. This was difficult, they say, as he insisted upon having work which required no thinking. So today, in a cheap brown suit, with his reddish mustache, untrimmed, the prodigy of a few years ago, works his adding machine.

"If people would only leave me alone," he said.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Sir Charles Abington engages Paul Harley, criminal investigator, to solve for him the mystery of constant surveillance of Sir Charles. Sir Charles asks Paul to dine with him at the Abington home. Sir Charles falls from his chair in a dying state. His last words are "Nicol Brinn" and "Fire-Tongue." Paul asks Nicol Brinn to explain to him the meaning of "Fire-Tongue." Brinn refuses to divulge his secret.
Harley and Phil Abington, daughter of Sir Charles, are made prisoners in the home of Ormuz Khan, an Oriental. Nicol Brinn rescues them and goes to tell the story of Fire-Tongue to the police.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
A strange greenish light prevailed here and directly before me I saw a flight of stone steps leading upward through a tunnel in the rock. By the light of a pocket torch which I had provided myself, I began to ascend the steps.
I had ascended more than five hundred steps, and felt that a rest would shortly be necessary, when I reached a sort of cave, or interior platform, from which seven corridors branched out like the spokes of a wheel.
To the damp coolness of the lower stairs an oppressive heat had now succeeded, and I became aware of a continuous roaring sound, which I found myself unable to explain.
Attached to a cell beneath my native dress I carried a Colt revolver; and therefore, leaving my rifle, and bundling in a corner of the cavern, I selected one of these corridors more or less at random, and set out to explore. This corridor proved to slope very gently upward from the platform, and I could not fail to notice that at every step the heat grew greater and greater. It became possible to discern the walls of the corridor ahead because of a sort of eerie bluish light which had now become visible.
At a point where the heat and a sulphurous smell were almost unbearable the corridor was blocked by massive iron bars beyond which the reflection of some gigantic fire danced upon the walls of a vast cavern.
"A hundred feet beneath me was a lake of fire! That is the only way I can describe it: a seething, bubbling lake of fire. And above, where the roof of the cavern formed a natural cone, was a square scorching of massive stone blocks, and quite obviously the handwork of man. The bars were too hot to touch, and the heat was like that of a furnace, but while I stood, peering first upward and then downward, a thing happened which I almost hesitate to describe, for it sounds like an incident from a nightmare.
"Identified by a rumbling sound which was perceptible above the roar of the fire below, the center block in the roof split open.
"As if conjured up by magic, a monstrous column of blue flame arose, swept up scorchingly, and looked like the tongue of a hungry dragon upon the roof of the cavern. Instantly the trap was closed again; the tongue of fire dropped back into the lake from which it had arisen on the draught of air.
"And right past me where I stood, rigid with horror, looking through those bars, fell a white-robed figure—whether man or woman I could not determine! Down, down into the fire fell a hundred feet below!
"One long-drawn, dying shriek reached my ears.
"Of my return to the place at which I had left my bundle and rifle I retain absolutely not one recollection. I was aroused from a sort of stupor of horror by the sight of a faint light moving across the platform ahead of me, as I was about to emerge from the tunnel.
"It was the light of a lantern, carried by a man who might have been the double of that yellow-robed mendicant who had first unconsciously led me to this accursed place.
"As the light of the lantern was swallowed up in the passage, I found my bundle and rifle and set out to follow the man. Four paces brought me to the foot of more steps. I walked barefooted, frequently pausing to listen. There were many carvings upon the walls, but I had no leisure to examine them.
"Contrary to my anticipations, however, there were no branches in this zigzag staircase, which communicated directly with the top of the lofty plateau. When presently I felt the fresh mountain air upon my face, I wondered why I could perceive no light ahead of me. Yet the reason was simple enough.
"Since I had passed through that strange water-gate to the City of Fire, the day had ended: it was night. And when, finding no further steps ahead of me, I passed along a level, narrow corridor for some ten paces and, looking upward, saw the stars, I was astounded.
"The yellow-robed man had disappeared and I stood alone, looking down upon that secret city which I had come so far to see.
"I found myself standing in deep underground, and, pressing this gently aside, I saw a wonderful spectacle. Away to my left was a great white marble building, which I judged to be a temple and forming a crescent before it was a miniature town, each white-walled house surrounded by a garden. It was Damascus reduced to fairy dimensions, a spectacle quite unforgettable.
"The fact which made the whole thing awesome and unreal was the presence, along the top of the temple which, like that of Babesepu at Bala-el-Bahari, seemed to be hewn out of the living rock but was faced with white marble of seven giant flames, each surrounded by a dazzling tongue of blue flame!
"I was afraid to move too far from the mouth of the tunnel, but nevertheless was anxious to obtain a good view of the little city at my feet. Gingerly I moved farther forward, ever craning out for a glimpse of the buildings more immediately below me, forgetful of the fact that I walked upon the brink of a precipice.
"Suddenly my outstretched foot failed to touch ground. I clutched wildly at the bushes around me. Their roots were not firm in the shallow soil, and, enveloped like some pagan god in a mass of foliage, I toppled over the cliff and fell!"
"My awakening was as strange as anything which had befallen me. I lay upon a silken bed in a pavilion which was furnished with exquisite, if somewhat barbaric, taste.
"I was lying there, in a curious and apathetic state; when the curtains dropped in the doorway were pulled more widely aside and a woman came in.
"Gentlemen, I will not endeavor to describe her, except to say that she was so darkly lovely that I doubted the evidence of my senses; tall and lithe, with the grace of some beautiful jungle creature.
"When she saw that I was awake, she paused and lowered her head in confusion. She wore a gossamer robe of sheeny golden silk, and, standing there with the light of the dawn behind her, she made a picture that I think would have driven a painter crazy.

"This is not the time nor the place for personal reminiscences. I am here for another purpose. One of those accidents which are really due to the hand of fate had precipitated me into the garden of the house of Naida, and she in her great compassion had tended me and sheltered me, keeping my presence secret from those who would have dealt with me in summary fashion, and, indeed, who were actually on the look-out for my arrival.
"Yes, so Naida informed me. To my great surprise she spoke almost perfect English, and that sort of understanding sprang up between us immediately which, in the case of a man and a beautiful woman thrown together as we were, can only terminate in one way.
"She was some sort of priestess of the temple which I had seen from the top of the cliff. What else she was I very shortly learned.
"In accordance with one of the many strange customs of the City of Fire, her personal servants, or rather slaves, were blind mules.
"Naida, for such was her name, told me that the Brahmin, Vadi, who had acted as my guide, was one of the followers of the Prophet of Fire, to whom had been given the duty of introducing me.
"In this way, gentlemen, I entered upon a brief period of my life at once more sweet and more bitter than any I had known. Next to that strange, invisible prophet whose name was Fire-Tongue, Naida held unquestioned sway in this secret city. Her husband was separated from the others, and she traveled to and from the temple in a covered litter. To look upon her, as upon Fire-Tongue himself, was death. Women, I learned, were eligible for admission to this order, and those were initiated by Naida.
"As the days of my strange but delightful captivity wore on, I learned more and more of the weird people who, unseen, surrounded me. There were lodges of the Cult of Fire all over the East, all having power to make initials and some to pass disciples into the higher grades. Those who aspired to the highest rank in the order, however, were compelled to visit this secret city in the Indian hills.

"Then at last I learned a secret which Naida had for long kept back from me. These followers of the new Zoroaster were polygamists, and she was the first or chief wife of the mysterious personage known as Fire-Tongue. I gathered that others had superseded her, and her lord and master rarely visited this marble house amid its extensive gardens.
"Her dignities remained, however, and no one had aspired to dethrone her as high priestess of the temple. She evidently knew all the secrets of the organization, and I gathered that she was indispensable to this group who controlled it.
"Respecting Fire-Tongue himself, his origin, his appearance, she was resolutely silent, a second Ade, faithful to the last. That the ends of this cult were not only religious but political, she did not deny, but upon this point she was very reticent.

That the money received from the sale of Christmas Seals, in this community is nearing the four thousand dollar mark was the report given to the Exchange Club last evening. The sale which is a splendid success considering the short time given the club for carrying it out, was under the supervision of a committee of which Russell K. McCurdy is the chairman. It is hoped to make a final report on the sale at the next meeting.
On motion of W. H. Harsha, and with the unanimous approval of the club, the local organization will become a member of the Harding Memorial Association. One dollar per capita for the club membership will be sent to the Memorial association.
Organization recently of eleven new Exchange clubs in the United States was reported from National headquarters and President Graves Williams appointed Henry Rugles, Ray Wilcox and D. E. Gardner, Jr., as a local committee on club extension work.
The social hour of the meeting was enlivened last evening by the Brown's Saxophone Sextette which is appearing at the Columbia all this week. This applause showed that the Exchangees enjoyed the music, and the "Browns" responded with encore. A vote of thanks was given the Browns and Manager Fred N. Tynes of the Columbia, for what was one of the most enjoyable stunts in the history of the local club.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.
Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.
If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.
You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.
Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes you one.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.
Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

Use Natural Gas Only Where It Does Useful Work

You will save money by using natural gas—rich in heat units—with standard stoves or burners designed to give the full heat value. The burners on your stove or range should not be more than 1-1/4 inches from the utensil. Otherwise, much of the heat is lost.

When in doubt, let our service department advise you free of charge, how you can avoid waste and use natural gas to best advantage.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS OPPOSE BONUS PLEDGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(By The Associated Press.)—Republican leaders of the house not only are opposed to consideration of the soldiers' bonus ahead of tax legislation, but believe it unwise to commit house Republicans to the enactment of a bonus bill at this session of congress.

This attitude became known today as bonus foes and friends perfected their plans for tomorrow night's party conference on taxation and the bonus. As they maneuvered for advantage, the revenue question bobbed up in the senate, half a dozen senators joining in the discussion.

On the house side, members of the Republican caucus, who had to-morrow night's conference called with the avowed purpose of bringing about a showdown on the bonus, were undecided in the face of opposition of organization leaders to their plans, as to what tactics they would employ.

May Abandon Plan

The group had intended to offer a resolution instructing the ways and means committee to report the McKensie bonus bill ahead of the tax measure, now under committee consideration. Announcement by Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, that he would counter with a proposal that the committee complete its consideration of the tax bill and report it before taking up the bonus question and his confidence that he would have enough votes to approve this program was followed today by the statement by some members of the way veterans group that they might not carry out their original intentions.

Representative Fish of New York, one of the leaders in the former service men's bloc, is understood to be prepared to offer a motion at the conference that the Republican membership of the house record itself as believing passage of a bonus bill would not be incompatible with tax reduction and that it favors enactment of both tax reduction and bonus legislation at this session.

Longworth Disapproves

This proposal, however, does not meet with the approval of Mr. Longworth and other leaders, who declared they thought the house Republicans should not pledge themselves to the passage of any legislation.

The Republican leader reiterated that he would press his resolution providing for priority for the tax bill to a vote in the conference regardless of proposals offered by bonus proponents.

In support of the contention of Mr. Fish that adjusted compensation payments could be financed if tax revision proposals of the treasury were carried into effect, Representative Andrew, Republican, Massachusetts, made public statement tonight which asserted that estimates of the treasury showed that this was possible.

Republican State Central Committee To Organize

COLUMBUS, O., January 10.—(By The Associated Press.)—An organization meeting of the Republican State Central Committee has been called by Chairman Charles W. Montgomery, of Newark, for the afternoon of January 24, at the Doshier Hotel here.

Accompanying announcement of the call for the meeting, it was stated that Senators Willis and Pease, and Attorney General Daugherty have been invited to address the meeting.

In addition to the members of the State Central Committee, women associate members and chairmen of the County Central and Executive Committees will participate in the conference. Plans of organizing for the coming campaign will be discussed.

No Unemployment; Good Prospects For Business

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(By The Associated Press.)—Very unemployment and good prospects for full industrial activity this year was reported by the United States Employment Service in a special survey made public today.

In such industrial areas as Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, and Massachusetts, the usual and inevitable seasonal slackening was said to be of less consequence than usual, with future resumption of factory operations assured. In California there was said to be no let up of construction during the winter.

Georgia, Kentucky and Louisiana were said to have had little unemployment at any time during 1923. In Iowa, only common labor was found unemployed, due to the weather. Kansas and other middle states were said to show continuing activity.

Right of Clergy to Liberty Of Thought Maintained

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 9.—(By The A. P.)—Right of the Presbyterian clergy to exercise liberty of thought and teaching is maintained in an affirmation signed by 150 Presbyterian ministers in all parts of the United States, issued today by a committee headed by the Rev. Murray Shipley Howland, of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian church.

"We do not desire liberty to go beyond the teachings of evangelical Christianity," the affirmation said. "But we maintain that it is our constitutional right and our Christian duty within these limits to exercise liberty of thought and teaching, that we may more effectively spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

The committee was formed and the affirmation prepared, Dr. Howland said, as the result of action taken by the General Assembly at Indianapolis last May in connection with the Harry Emerson Fosdick case. The 150 signers, he said, had been chosen as representative after consultation extending over several months.

"As chairman of the committee drawing up the affirmation, I understand the spirit of those who wrote it," he said. "It is not an attack by liberals on conservatives. It is signed by both conservatives and liberals who believe the church is in itself enough to keep as ministers all those who accept the duty of Christ with its implications."

Women Seek Money Balm From Father and Son

ATLANTA, GA., January 10.—(By The United Press.)—The one hundred thousand dollar breach of promise suit of Mrs. Clara DeBouché, New Orleans beauty, against Asa G. Candler, aged Atlanta millionaire, is on the docket for January 30.

Since the suit was filed some months ago, Candler has married a former stenographer.

Mrs. DeBouché filed the suit in response to Candler's claim that after their engagement he had caused her to leave the New Orleans beauty had been indiscreet during the Confederate Veterans' Convention here some months previous, for which she was the official sponsor.

After repeated efforts to force the aged millionaire to make public the source of his information and specify his insinuations, Mrs. DeBouché filed suit for damages.

Next month the damage suit of Mrs. Clyde Byfield against Walter Candler, son of Asa, is scheduled to be heard in the Decatur superior court.

This suit is an outgrowth of a voyage to Europe Candler made with Mr. and Mrs. Byfield and their children, as his guests. Crossing the Atlantic Candler broke into her state room and attacked her. Mrs. Byfield charged in her suit which was filed here soon after the party returned from the trip.

Mrs. Byfield is seeking $100,000 damages.

Grand Jury May Probe Novelist's Divorce Efforts

PROVIDENCE, R. I., January 10.—(By the Associated Press)—A grand jury investigation of Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson's efforts to obtain a divorce here is expected today. State Attorney General Carpenter, Judge Chester Barrows, in whose court the divorce was granted, and Judge Jerome Hahn, of Criminal Court, have arranged a conference to discuss the matter.

Records of the case were sent to the attorney general yesterday after Judge Barrows had permanently vacated the decree he granted last week and hastily withdrew when a newspaper article showing that Mrs. Sanderson had not maintained a residence here for the required length of time, as claimed in her petitions, was placed before him. A letter from Mrs. Sanderson, declaring she had misunderstood the residence clause of the Rhode Island divorce laws, was read in court.

Attorney General Carpenter said Judge Barrows expressed a determination to carry the matter to the grand

1 Know A Fellow

Who walked the streets for weeks trying to find a job, but was unsuccessful, and what do you suppose he did? Well, sir, he opened an employment agency to get jobs for others. I was telling a friend of mine about him and he laughed and said, "Why, dog gone it, that's nothing I know a fellow who has been a failure at everything he ever tackled in his life, and sometime ago he announced himself an efficiency expert, and now the largest concerns in the city are paying him big money to tell them how to run their business," — just like lots of people try to tell us how to fit those black and brown six dollar shoes we are selling for a few days at five.

THE COST OF A BATTLE

THE compilation made by the British government of the cost of the bombardment of the German positions immediately preceding the third battle of Ypres is one of those cases in which a minor specific item will be more impressive than a great generalization. We have been told that the war cost billions of dollars, but the figures are almost too huge for our comprehension. The expense of modern warfare is brought closer to our understanding when we are informed that the ammunition discharged by the British in preparing for the engagement referred to cost approximately $107,947,351.

We can grasp that; we know of other sums of money with which to make a comparison. For example, we remember the Anglo-French loan of $500,000,000 which was floated in this country prior to our own entrance into the war. It was the largest bond issue of this character that was ever offered to American investors and created a great deal of talk. The services of banking houses in all parts of the country were called for in floating the loan. It rather staggers the imagination to learn that one-fifth of the huge sum was expended just in getting ready for a single battle—in firing the 4,283,550 rounds of artillery ammunition that preceded the advance.

It is to be borne in mind that this expenditure was incurred in merely setting the stage for the battle, and takes no account of anything but the cost of the shells with which the German trenches were bombarded. A hundred million dollars shot away! Enough money to establish two or three universities, provide them with first-class buildings and equipment, and give them an endowment, besides. Enough to provide several Carnegie Institutes. The Rockefeller Foundation, which has done so much to eliminate yellow fever, hookworm, malaria, tuberculosis and other diseases, was started with a gift of $100,000,000.

The waste of money in warfare is the least of the evils. There can be no comparison between the financial cost and the loss of the priceless lives. Still, there are those who may be influenced more by the pecuniary burden than by the thought of the slain.

If there is no appeal to the heart of humanity in the movement to prevent war there ought to be an appeal to the intelligence in this illuminating item from the "statistics of the military effort of the British Empire during the Great War." Even the victors in a modern war between great powers must waste billions of treasure and load their people down with taxes for generations.

A weather prophet predicts that it will be cold in Cleveland at the time of the convention next June. For some candidates, he may mean.

A French astrologer predicts that this year will be attended with troubles. It will be different from any in the past, if it isn't.

Danish prince who renounces the throne in order to marry an American girl didn't give up much and, besides, look what he is getting!

"We are a conquered nation," said Chancellor Marx in an address on Christmas. Still, that's not the same as saying the nation is willing to pay the price.

"A man makes a great mistake when he does not let it be understood immediately after the marriage that he is the master," a Canadian magistrate avers. It might indicate discretion not to raise the issue.

Discusses Conditions in South America

An interested audience last night greeted H. Strachan, South American evangelist when he addressed the prayer meeting gathering at the First Baptist Church.

Mr. Strachan first went into Latin America for the Evangelical Union, which carried on interdenominational missionary work. He has been engaged in this service for 22 years, recently carrying on the work independently. He has made for himself and a growing organization a continent-wide reputation among the 20 republics which constitute Latin America, by carrying on revivals in the theaters and public auditoriums, as well as in tents, reaching big crowds. During one year recently he and Mrs. Strachan traveled 30,000 miles through 17 countries, conferring with 550 missionaries representing 80 creeds, during the course of his activities.

His lecture last night disclosed the feeling with which South Americans look upon evangelistic work, and the task yet awaiting church workers in the Latin American countries.

Mr. Strachan is originally from near Toronto, Canada.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—They are trying again to keep Manhattan out of the night. When the town went dry, as rumor had it, the Midnight frolic locked the doors and turned out the gas. The glass runways were put in storage and dainty Bird Millman went back to the circus.

Broadway apparently held aloft a pious hand and cried, "I'm through." People, it was believed, would go straight home from the play. For a time midnight jollity was dead except in the private apartments and clubs. The mighty roar of the Forties became a stifled yawn.

Then Arthur Hammerstein brought a nine o'clock revue over from London to sparkle on the Century Roof. That was slipping the clock ahead an hour. Another revue in Columbus Circle threw open its doors at ten and received a hearty welcome.

Two midnight shows are now in the process of rehearsal and will be running soon. And there is even talk of a two o'clock show to catch the sun dodgers when they leave the supper clubs thirsting for more excitement.

So it is the little wooden hammers with which patrons beat out their mean of joy on table tops in the old days when midnight was the starting hour will again resound along the Rialto.

Of course at a certain hour—as is the custom—the waiters will whisper their warning: "Please remove all flasks from the table." After a short wait two debauched men will calculate hurriedly among the tables looking rather sheepish. They are the intrepid revenue men.

Their exit remarks a renewal of merriment. Broadway will continue its dance of death. Nothing seems to stop it—not even the law. The ancient runder must have some place to park his tired body. And youth, too, must be served.

The little flashes of metropolitan mysteries are always interesting. At four o'clock the other morning a woman in evening dress drove in a taxicab to Madison Square. She alighted and walked through the park tearing a packet of letters to tiny bits and scattering them along the paths.

Some five hundred marriage licenses are issued in New York in a day. The blushing young couples upon leaving the bureau are besieged by all sorts of tradesmen who present their cards. There are insurance agents, furniture dealers, suburban developers, chain grocery store scouts and scores of others. One agent gives each prospective bride a handsome cook book and a tobacco agent presents the groom with a package of 100 cigarettes. They are mostly elderly men who seem to understand. They have pleasant smiles and words of encouragement.

Visitors to the Cafe Le Rotonde in the Montmartre section of Paris who know Greenwich Village feel at home there these winter days. For the Village has transplanted a group of its serious thinkers there. Fourteen daubers and scribblers who formerly made their haunts around the coffee shops are now making their headquarters at the Cafe Le Rotonde.

Among them are Mania Tullana, who smokes small cigars; Tess, who ran a alibouette shop; Ben Olwell, who plays Spanish melodies on his guitar; and Therese, the batik maker. The group decided a year ago that Greenwich Village had lost its pristine charm. They were tired of slumming Babbitts who gaped at them and so they took jobs uptown, pooled their resources and sailed away in the steamer—to give art a leg up in the Latin Quarter.

It was lunch hour at the time works, and Pat's two buddies, deciding to play a little joke on him during his absence, drew the feature of a donkey upon the back of his coat, which he had left behind. In due time Pat returned, and presently bore in sight bearing the lime-decorated coat.

SOME kids I know are 'fraid of a cop. Whenever he comes, they run; They think he's comin' around to stop The fellows that's havin' fun. But I've found out he's a darn good scout. As good as you could design, An' I feel safer when he's about; The cop is a friend of mine.

HE doesn't fuss at a little noise When we're playin' around the street. An' he's lookin' after the girls and boys That's livin' along his beat. He sees that the motor-cars don't whizz Too close to our football line, I'm tellin' you I'm a friend of his, An' he is a friend of mine.

IF a kid behaves like he'd ought to do If he had any sense at all, He'd know that the cop is a friend that's true To fellows that's big or small. He's one of the gang, that's what he is. If you treat him that way—he's fine, An' that's why I am a friend of his, An' he is a friend of mine! (Copyright, 1924, N.B.A. Service, Inc.)

That's Not Nice
She—I heard you stinging in your room this morning.

He—Oh, I sing a little to kill time. She—You certainly have a good weapon.—Tid-Bits (London).

Tinsley, Prohibition Officer J. M. Billing, of Catlettsburg; Lee Stewart, of Pikeville, and several other revenue officers made a raid on the stills near the golf links at Belfont, near Russell, and captured one man who was taken to Catlettsburg jail to wait his hearing. He registered as G. Dillo, aged 23. Three others saw the officers approaching and made good their escape. Three large stills were taken, one so modern that it was sent to headquarters at Lexington. Two were 100-gallon capacity and the other 150. Twenty-two hundred and fifty gallons of mash was destroyed and two stills confiscated.
